

Cervical Screening in General Practice: Changes to self-collection eligibility and the intermediate risk pathway

PHN EDUCATION SESSION

From 1 July 2022, the National Cervical Screening Program (NCSP) expanded Cervical Screening Test sample collection options, offering clinician collection or self-collection as a choice to all people participating in cervical screening. Expanding the option of self-collection to all participants is hoped to be a game changer in cervical cancer elimination, improve access to screening, and close the screening gap for under-screened and never screened people.

The webinar will additionally include education on the clinical management of women at intermediate risk in the NCSP.

Learning outcomes

- Be aware that self-collection eligibility policy changed on 1 July 2022 and discuss self-collection exclusions according to National clinical guidelines
- Utilise appropriate referral pathways including when participants should be referred on to specialists
- Discuss what changes were made to the intermediate risk clinical pathway in February 2021 including changes to referral recommendations

SPEAKERS: Denise Lyons, Nurse Practitioner, Kotara Family Practice and HealthPathways Clinical Editor

Dr Sally Sweeney, Conjoint Senior Lecturer University of Newcastle & GP, Elmore Vale General Practice and Family Planning NSW

WHO: General Practitioners, Registrars and Nurses

WHEN: Tuesday 11th October 2022, 6:30 pm – 8:00 pm

WHERE: Online via GoTo webinar

RSVP: Please CLICK HERE to register