

Grief/Loss and Bereavement Counselling for Young People (3 – 17 years old)

PHN EDUCATION SESSION

This session will provide information on the PHN's newly commissioned service with the National Centre for Childhood Grief (NCCG).

The NCCG will be delivering telehealth services across the HNECC PHN region for bereaved young people aged 3 to 17 years, who are struggling in their grief and requiring specialist counselling to support their challenges.

The session will outline the referral pathways, eligibility criteria, program information, activities and practical case studies of children and young people who may access the service.

SPEAKERS: Dr Elizabeth Mann - Clinical Director (NCCG)

Liz works as both a children's and adult's bereavement counsellor, clinical supervisor and since 2015, as Clinical Director for the NCCG. After studying Medicine at the University of Sydney and working as a GP for many years, Liz's special interest in Palliative Care and Bereavement Care led her to retrain and specialise in Bereavement Counselling, under the tuition of world renowned authorities in this field, Mal McKissock OAM and Dianne McKissock OAM. Liz is passionate about helping bereaved children learn how to live with their grief. She is equally invested in educating as many professionals as possible on death and dying and what is best practice when working with bereaved people.
