

Telehealth in Allied Health

PHN EDUCATION SESSION

Join us and find out how the Hunter New England and Central Coast Primary Health Network are supporting allied health practices with Telehealth. This evening Aimee Prosser a Clinical Operations Manager and Senior Occupational Therapist within a large multidisciplinary private practice, will share her Telehealth experience covering the following topics.

- How is Telehealth used in practice since the COVID restrictions have eased?
- What is working well and not so well?
- What role does Telehealth play in the future of delivering allied health services?

SPEAKERS:

Jason Rumianek - Information Management Information Technology Manger at the HNECC PHN, will discuss how the PHN can support allied health providers with Telehealth.

Aimee Prosser - Aimee currently works for Recovery Station providing clinical leadership for Occupational Therapists, Mental Health Social Workers, Physiotherapists, Exercise Physiologists, Speech Pathologists, Dieticians and Allied Health Assistance staff. As an Occupational Therapist over the last 20 years Aimee has worked in acute care, rehabilitation, community, aged care, and primary care sectors, and now enjoys working primarily with NDIS clients.
