

Central Coast Dementia Services & Supports Guide

This guide was created by the Central Coast Dementia Alliance (CCDA) as a resource for health and community workers supporting people living with dementia, their carers and families living on the Central Coast, NSW.

The CCDA aims to ensure a collaborative and integrated approach to the planning, implementation and evaluation of projects that improve the health, care and quality of life of people living with dementia, their carers and families, as well as providing support to those who provide care and services to them.

This guide is a listing of services only and does not represent an endorsement or recommendation.

The guide will be updated periodically with information that CCDA is able to access in the public domain. If you have suggestions of updates or services to be added, please send service information to:

1.1 Arranging assessments and diagnosis

- Encourage the person to make an appointment with their GP to discuss their concerns. Input from the person's family/carer can provide vital information to assist with the need for investigations in relation to the concerns raised. The GP may initiate a range of investigations to support a probable diagnosis of dementia. Having a consistent GP can assist in monitoring changes over time and assists with comprehensive management for the person and their family over the course of the disease.
- People may choose to make an appointment with their GP and ask for a referral to see a Geriatrician or a Neurologist.
- People experiencing early changes in memory and cognition can also speak to their GP about a referral to the Central Coast Local Health District – Dementia and Behaviour Support Services Memory Screening Assessment Service.

2.2 Planning ahead

NSW law assumes that everyone has the mental capacity to make decisions. That is, they understand and weigh up information presented to them, make an appropriate decision, and clearly communicate their choices.

Capacity can however be affected temporarily because of illness or the effects of medication, or permanently affected due to conditions such as intellectual disability, dementia, mental illness, or brain injury.

Guardian

Guardian: A guardian is a substitute decision-maker with authority to make personal or lifestyle decisions about the person under guardianship. A guardian is appointed for a specified period of time and is given specific functions (e.g. the power to decide where the person should live, what services they should receive and what medical treatment they should be given). A private guardian may be appointed such as a family member or friend, provided the circumstances of the matter allow for this and they meet the criteria set out in the legislation.

Enduring Guardian: An enduring guardian is someone a person appoints to make personal or lifestyle decisions on their behalf when they are not capable of doing this for themselves. People choose which decisions they want the enduring guardian to make. These are called functions. People can direct the enduring guardian on how to carry out the functions. The appointment of an enduring guardian comes into effect when a person loses capacity to make personal or lifestyle decisions.

Public Guardian: The Public Guardian promotes the rights and interests of people with disabilities through the practice of guardianship, advocacy and education. The Public Guardian is a statutory official appointed by the Guardianship Division of the NSW Civil & Administrative Tribunal (NCAT) or the Supreme Court under the Guardianship Act 1987.

Will

A will is a legal document that sets out who a person wants to receive their assets including jewellery, sentimental items, money and property when they die. Making a will is the only way people can ensure their assets will be distributed according to their wishes.

If someone dies without a will (intestate) the person's estate will be distributed according to a pre-determined formula, with certain family members receiving a defined percentage of the assets despite what the person may have wished.

Power of Attorney

A Power of Attorney is a person who has legal authority to look after a person's financial affairs on their behalf. NSW Trustee & Guardian can prepare a Power of Attorney and act as the attorney under a Power of Attorney. When NSW Trustee & Guardian prepares a Power of Attorney, people can appoint either:

1. The NSW Trustee & Guardian to act as the attorney.
2. A person of their choosing to act as attorney and NSW Trustee & Guardian as substitute attorney.
3. A person of their choosing to act as attorney.

Enduring Power of Attorney: An enduring power of attorney is a legal document appointing an attorney or attorneys who can act on a person's behalf in financial matters under their instruction while they have capacity or without their instruction if they lose capacity.

Financial Manager: A financial manager is a legally appointed substitute decision-maker with authority to make decisions about and manage a person's financial affairs (e.g. their money, property and other financial assets, such as share portfolios) and their legal affairs (e.g. instructing a solicitor). A private financial manager may be appointed or a family member or friend, provided they are a 'suitable person' as required by the legislation.

NSW Trustee: When a person appoints the NSW Trustee & Guardian as attorney they offer either Future Assist or Active Assist.

Future Assist: A Power of Attorney designed to provide people with a safety net should unforeseen events occur.

Active Assist: A Power of Attorney where people are able to choose the level of assistance they require.

Advance Care Planning

Advance Care Planning is a process that helps people to plan for future medical care. This process involves the person thinking about their values, beliefs, and wishes about what medical care they would like to have if they cannot make their own decisions.

An important part of the planning process is for the person to discuss their wishes with their family and other people who are close to them, as well as talking to their General Practitioner or other health professionals about any medical conditions they have.

People may also choose to write down their wishes in an Advance Care Directive, which outlines their specific treatment wishes.

Advance Care Directive

An Advance Care Directive, which is sometimes referred to as a 'Living Will', is a document. It should provide a clear statement that sets out a person's directions, including their wishes and values, that need to be considered before medical treatment decisions are made on their behalf. Discussions around these issues are best done with people who are important to the person and their doctor.

Stage 3. Help at Home

3.1 Process for people aged under 65 years – access to the National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS)

The NDIS will provide all Australians under the age of 65 who have a permanent and significant disability with the reasonable and necessary supports they need to function in their life. As an insurance scheme, the NDIS takes a lifetime approach, investing in people with disability early to improve their outcomes later in life.

Is the person eligible to apply for the NDIS?

- ☐ Aged between 7-65 years
- ☐ Lives in Australia and has Australian residency
- ☐ Requires support from a person and/or equipment due to permanent and significant disability (including dementia)
- ☐ Needing supports now to reduce future needs

Complete an Access Request – either verbally or via a paper form. This is not available online.

The NDIS encourages people to make their own Access Requests when possible. If the person is not able to do this, they can request that their carer is their “nominee” and complete the Access Request on their behalf.

To make a verbal Access Request or obtain an Access Request Form:

- Call NDIS, Ph: 1800 800 110 (Monday – Friday, 8am - 8pm), or
- Visit the local NDIS office at 99 Georgiana Terrace, Gosford (Monday – Friday, 9am - 5pm), or
- Visit an NDIS Local Area Coordinator (LAC) office – St Vincent De Paul at 273 Mann Street, Gosford or 28 Hely Street, Wyong, or
- Contact the Carer Retreat at Gosford Hospital, Ph: 4320 5556

⋮

Gather relevant written evidence about the person's disability (dementia), to support their application

- ☐ Medical reports. A letter from a specialist doctor confirming a dementia diagnosis is preferred. The GP or other relevant health professional can complete the medical section of the Access Request Form.
- ☐ Allied Health reports (e.g. Occupational Therapy), if relevant, describing the impact of dementia on the person's social interaction, communication, self-care, self-management and mobility.

If the paper version of the Access Request is completed, it can be submitted online, in person or by post. Medical evidence documents can be submitted the same way.

- Online NAT@ndis.gov.au, or
- In person at an NDIS or LAC office (see details above), or
- By post: National Disability Insurance Agency (NDIA), GPO Box 700, Canberra ACT 2601

NDIS Access Approved ✓

1. LAC or NDIS Planner will contact the person to arrange a planning meeting.
2. The NDIS develops a Plan based on the information provided by the person and their carer at this meeting.
3. The finalised Plan will be sent via post.
4. The person/their carer then contacts local Service Providers to negotiate and arrange supports for the person according to their Plan. The NDIS will appoint a "Support Co-ordinator" to assist with this process, if required.

More Evidence Needed —

Before granting approval, the NDIS may ask for more information from a doctor or other health professional about the impact of dementia on the person's social interaction, communication, self-care, self-management and mobility.

↓

NDIS Access Not Approved ✗

Options include:

- Supports via other avenues may be possible for people who are not approved for NDIS.
- Some services may be available through My Aged Care. Ph: 1800 200 422 or visit www.myagedcare.gov.au
- Alternatively, contact the local LAC office for assistance with locating other relevant supports.
- If the person disagrees with the NDIS decision, they can request an "Internal Review" by:
  - submitting a written request to:
Chief Executive Officer
National Disability Insurance Agency
GPO Box 700, Canberra ACT 2601
  - talking to someone at an NDIA office:
1800 800 110
  - sending an email to:
enquiries@ndis.gov.au.

The benefit of a home care package is that the home care provider will work with the client to:

- Choose care and services that best meet the needs and goals

Contributions can vary depending on the person's financial situation.

The waiting list time can vary across the different levels of packages, once they are approved.

2. COMMUNITY ACCESS GROUPS

Community access groups: provide activities and outings to give people a sense of independence and some social interaction, while giving the carer a break. This may be provided individually or as part of a group.

Stage 5. Residential Aged Care Facilities

An aged care home (sometimes known as a nursing home or residential aged care facility) is for older people who can no longer live at home and need ongoing help with everyday tasks or health care.

How do they operate?

The Australian Government subsidises a range of aged care homes in Australia. This means affordable care and support services can be accessed by those who need it. The subsidies are paid directly to the aged care home. The amount of funding that a home receives is based on:

- an assessment of the person's care needs by the home (using a tool called the Aged Care Funding Instrument or ACFI)
- how much people can afford to contribute to the cost of their care and accommodation (using an income and assets assessment)

To get the funding, subsidised aged care homes have to meet Aged Care Quality Standards to ensure quality care and services are provided.

GOVERNMENT-SUBSIDISED AGED CARE HOMES

- Receive subsidies to make care more affordable
- Regulated by the Australian Government
- Independent accreditation through the Aged Care Quality and Safety Commission (ACQSC)
- Some places may not be subsidised

PRIVATE AGED CARE HOMES

- Private aged care homes don't receive subsidies from the Australian Government
- Retirement homes or independent living units don't necessarily provide care services
- Retirement homes are regulated by state and territory governments.

What will it cost?

Each home sets their own prices, within a prescribed limit, and costs will vary. How much people will have to pay depends on the place they choose and an assessment of their income and assets. Typically, there are three types of costs associated with all aged care homes:

- A basic daily fee (the maximum is currently $52.71 per day at time of print)
A maximum amount that everyone pays for the hotel services they receive.
- Accommodation costs
A varying cost for a room based on an income and assets assessment.
- Means-tested care fee (the maximum is currently $256.44 per day at time of print)
A varying cost for the care services received based on an income and assets assessment.

People can get an idea of what they may have to pay by using the residential care fee estimator.

More information about the costs and fees can be sourced on the aged care homes costs page on the My Aged Care website.

Life planning documents may include an Advance Care Directive; a Do Not Resuscitate form (see Stage 2 section of this guide) and www.planningaheadtools.com.au.

If the person is wishing to remain living at home during this time, it will be crucial to have a GP who can do home visits when required and to sign a death certificate when that time comes.
