

Recruitment Invitation

Dear General Practitioners,

The University of Wollongong invites you to be a catalyst of change by sharing your invaluable insights in the use of general practice records for research.

We are seeking passionate GPs from across Australia to join a select group shaping the future of healthcare.

Participation in this research is tailored to your expertise and interest in data sharing, we offer two distinctive opportunities for your involvement. A one-to-one interview with a researcher or engage in a modified Delphi survey.

Selected GPs will take part in a 60 minute one-to-one online interview via Zoom to engage in a meaningful discussion about your perspectives on sharing general practice data for research, all while considering the perspectives of the public.

The modified Delphi survey will be conducted across three rounds of 15-20 minute surveys. This allows you to share your agreement levels with public views on data sharing and explore the feasibility within general practice. Each round provides an anonymized summary of previous responses, encouraging you to refine your insights based on your panel's collective wisdom.

As a token of our appreciation for your role, participants will receive up to $250/per hour as VISA gift card.

Take this opportunity to be heard! Contact the UOW research team and join us in shaping the future of general practice research.
